Laquin Baseball Team Wallop Champions 13 to 1.

LUMBERMEN HAVE PICNIC.

Horsehide Heelers From the Tall Timbers Lower Proud Colors of Ulster Chasiste, Clout Them Unmercifully and Then Some.

Ulster 1.
Laquin 13.
'Twas terrible as 'twere.

In the brief space of a couple of hours Friday afternoon, and in their own dooryard, the once great and mighty Ulster baseball team was relegated from the top notch of glory to the nineteenth step down in the basement of disclassed classics, baseballically speaking and otherwise made to appear like common amateurs, which when pronounced sounds like amachewers. Nine young citizens of Laquin, the lumber town up in the poetic wilderness of Barclay township, did the stunt and performed it so carefully, cheerfully and caslubriously that all Ulster felt the shock. It hurt, it certainly did.

Ulster is in sorrow with sadness hanging around on the fences today. The slaughter of the town's once tall and terrific tossists was something fearful to behold, and even the women folks, those loyal loyalists are weeping wet salty tears. It wouldn't have been half so bad but Ulster had set up a claim that they were the real "champeens" of this wide and wistful Bradford county, and had even slept with that idea, carrying it around until it was too heavy to hold in the vest pocket. Now on this day after they must content themselves with the belief and undisputed claim of the championship of the county which lies between North Towanda and Green's Landing, on the north and south, and the river and a rail fence on the east and west.

Laquin larruped Monroeton on the afternoon of the ever glorious Fourth but even that did not make them think they were much on the peel outside of the bark woods. When they went to Ulster on the afternoon of Friday, not a man on the nine had the least idea of hurting any one's feelings, nor had they any intention of participating in a picnic.

Cranmer was slated to go on the mound and slam for Ulster, but when the fury started he was not in action and the Almighty Davidson, he of the twists, crooks and spit balls was sent in to serve. Just what the lumber lovers did to Davidson's delivery only those who saw the seance can describe and testify to, but it was awful even at that. From the overture to the dirge in the last hour, the woodists walloped Spalding's best one twenty-fivers all over the spreading acres, and chased themselves around the circuit until they were leg weary. Each Laquinite was at bat five times and some six, and some were ashamed to take the sixth poke at the sphere, but did just to keep the crowd good natured

Rockwell, the boy wonder from the tall pines, stood on the slabby slab for Laquin and how he did shoot those shootlets straight over the pan. Such slab work as his was too hazy for the Ulster batsmen and while they were not batting out on easy flies and grounders, they were going to the bench via the air puncturing route, or in other words chopping the cool atmosphere into shreds, endeavoring to connect with Rockwell's rocky rockets.

One Ulster playist succeeded in pattering over the home platter after making a detour of the pillows and that was an accident caused by an error on the part of the Laquin shortstop. Had it not been for that little slip Ulster would have been fondling today one of those big ciphers with the outer rim knocked off, sometimes called a goose egg without the shell, but more familiary known in baseball parlance as a trimming in whitewash, episcoticaackly speaking.

A fair sized crowd saw the swatfest and cheered and mourned in turn. Outside of the heavy hitting and terriffic swating of the Laquin swattists there was no bright spots in the one sided picnic. Ulster was walloped unmercifully, but fairly and have only solace coming. They told Laquin they intended to harpoon them, but fell down on the promise and now they are sad.

The war map:

GRANGE BANK BUYS BUILDING.

Important Real Estate Transfer in Mansfield Last Week.

Postmaster T. H. Bailey of Mansfield, last Wednesday sold his half of the new Shepard-Bailey building at the corner of Main and Wellsboro streets, to the Grange National bank, for $6,000.

The Elmira Advertiser says: "It will soon be handsomely fitted up for use as a banking office. W. D. Husted, for a quarter of a century connected with the Ross & Williams bank, has been elected cashier of the Grange bank. He is now engaged in the insurance business, with offices in Williamsport. He stated that after weighing the matter carefully, he had concluded to accept the position, because it will admit of his being at home steadily instead of only occasionally. Leon Lewis, a member of the C. S. Lewis company, dealers in wagons and agricultural implements, has been elected assistant cashier. He is a graduate of Mansfield Normal school, and later was a student in Meeker's School of Commerce, Elmira, until the death of his father, C. S. Lewis, several months ago, when he was obliged to return to Mansfield to look after the business interests of the estate."

HONESDALE MAN POISONED.

Arsenic Found in the Stomach—Inevitable Woman in the Case.

It is now definitely established that Fred Marks, the farm hand who died suddenly and in great agony at Cherry Ridge, near Honesdale, on May 30, was poisoned by arsenic. This, in effect, is the substance of the report made by the chemist who analyzed the man's stomach.

Marks was found in a barn near the home of a farm hand named Charles Johnson, in a dying condition. After being removed to the home of Douglass, Marks died in a very short time.

There were rumors in the neighborhood where Marks lived that he insulted Mrs. Johnson, the wife of the man in whose barn he was found dying. Mrs. Johnson does not deny that Marks did insult her, or at least persisted in remaining in her house when she ordered him out, and that she had given him three or four lashes of a whip when he refused to go. She denies that Marks either ate or drank in her house. The case is causing widesperad interest.

The best days to perform surgical operations will be the 1st, 24th, 26th and 27th. A surgical operation performed when the moon is in the same sign as when you were born would prove fatal."

OWEN NOT TO BLAME

Former Wysox Citizen Not Responsible for Death of Actress

TRAGIC END OF AUTO RIDE.

Show Girl Was Killed by Fall From Owen's Car, Near Danville—Were Returning From Ride in the Country When Accident Occurred.

The coroners's jury which inquired into the death of Miss Agnes H. Garger, the beautiful actress who was killed near Danville early Friday morning by being thrown from a swiftly moving automobile, driven by Fred Owen of Danville, a former resident of Wysox, and a gentleman well known in Towanda, found that "she met her death by accidentally falling from an automobile driven by Fred Owen, and that he was not criminally responsible for her death."

The Accident.

A Dansville newspaper gives the following account of the terrible accident which cost the actress her life:

Death, sudden and violent, came to Miss Agnes Hilda Garger, a show girl, when she fell from a swiftly-moving automobile on a country road near Danville, at an early hour Friday morning. Fred Owen, in whose car she was riding, after picking up his injured companion, and while she was breathing her last, dashed for Danville at top speed in search for the nearest medical assistance, only to find on his arrival that Miss Garger was dead in his arms.

"Miss Garger was playing at Danville with a carnival company. She was about 25 years of age and most attractive. Friday night, after the performance, she, with Mr. Owen in one car, and another member of the carnival troupe, Miss Agnes McVey, and Harry Cromwell in another, left for the Oak Tree Hotel, a country road house five miles from Danville, to spend the evening. The party stayed at the Oak Tree for several hours and left the hotel on the return trip home at about 1:30.

"Coming into Danville from the Oak Tree Hotel there is a steep hill, and Mr. Owen was taking the grade at a good clip, when suddenly the car struck a waterway, and when Owen recovered from the jolt he found his companion missing. Backing his car to the waterway he found Miss Garger lying prostrate on the road.

"The girl was still breathing and Owen placed her in the auto and with one arm grasping the dying girl and the other on the steering gear he started on his race with death. Before half of the distance between the hotel and Danville had been covered, however, the girl expired.

"Miss Garger was a graduate of the Anna Morgan Dramatic school of Chicago, where she was a star pupil. Her home is in Austria.

"Mr. Owen was deeply affected by the girl's death and stood the expense of her funeral, which was held on Saturday."

Rest in Danville Cemetery.

Saturday's Bloomsburg Press says: "Hoping to locate the mother of Miss Agnes Hilda Garger, the carnival girl who was killed by falling from the automobile of Fred Owens of Danville, on Thursday morning, data was sent to the New York police department that would enable them to secure a trunk owned by the dead girl which is in storage there and which is thought to contain much that will clear up the mystery surrounding her.

"This trunk was only recently secured from a New York hotel man, which had been held by him for nonpayment of the girl's board. To secure it was her one ambition, and while she was not making sufficient money to get it, the manager of the show advanced the necessary money and the morning following her death there was returned to her the receipt from the New York storage house. If the storage people allow the trunk to be opened there is very little question that the name of the girl's mother will be learned.

"The police authorities of Danville were unable to locate a relative to whom the body might be sent and her funeral was held Friday afternoon from the undertaking parlors of John Doster & Son. Many of the morbidly curious were present, as was also Mr. Owens and the members of the carnival company with whom she was engaged. The body was laid at rest in Odd Fellows' cemetery.

"The casket in which the body lay was a beautiful one and no expense was spared in giving the unfortunate young girl a proper burial. All the expenses of the funeral were borne by Mr. Owens and he also purchased the plot in the cemetery."

The Troy water system which for a few days last week was out of kilter, is agafn in fine working order, and an abundant supply of excellent spring water is again being furnished. The trouble grew out of an effort to clean some of the supply pipes. Before the water could be induced to syphon the right way into the big reservoir, it ran nearly dry and pumping had to be resorted to and kept up all of third of July night. Some dirt in the bottom of the reservoir was stirred up ond found its way through the supply pipes into town. Latterly this reservoir has been cut out of the system and the supply is now coming from the Edgewood reservoir and a big spring up Canton street. There are a great many people in this town of the same opionion as Captain Moore in regard to the new bridge at North Towanda. At the present time with the taxes all the people can stand up under, we think it not advisable to saddle another county bridge of that caliber on top of the other load. The letter of Mr. Hall reminds us of the long-winded sermons the preacher gave and asked a good old sister how she liked the sermon, and she said she did not like it at all; and he asked her why, and she said: "First place, you read it; second place, you are a poor reader, and third place, it was not worth reading, anyway." While Mr. Hall may be sincere in some of his views, he ought not to put so many slurs in. It does not sound well to a fair-minded person, and is not as he would like to be done by.

FORREST REUNION.

Gathering of a Well Known and Prominent Family at Smithfield

BROTHERS ALL WAR VETERANS

Seven of the Forrest Boys Fought in the Civil War and All Were Alive and in Attendance at the Reunion Held on Wednesday, July 10.

A family reunion of more than ordinary interest was held on July 10, 1907, at the home of Hon. L. W. Forrest, at East Smithfield.

The family assembled was that of Dana and Margaret Eames Forrest, and with them more than 100 invited guests, a fine company of 150. The occasion was the visit to Smithfield of L. D. Forrest, Esq., of Eugene, Ore., after an absence of 18 years. Mr. Forrest is accompanied by his wife and her sister, Mrs. Cheshire.

A large bower had been erected extending from the porch over a portion of the lawn, making a delightful and commodious banquet hall and, later, the auditorium. A beautiful day made this an ideal addition to the large house. From one side of the arbor there looked down on the company the strong and intelligent face of the father and the refined and womanly face of the mother, as the nine survivors of the 13 children of this old and well known family greeted their friends.

A place of prominence was given a large bird's-eye view of the field of Gettysburg, this being an eceptionally appropriate time for renewing war memories, the seven brothers having all served in the Civil war.

The dinner was provided without care to the guests or family, the latter employing a friend to make all provision and arrangements. So successfully was this done that the large company was admirably served without delay or confusion by an efficient corps of waiters, and an excellent and bountiful dinner was much enjoyed. At each plate was placed a dainty souvenir program of the exercises of the afternoon. These were opened at the beginning of the dinner by a selection by the male quartet, "four of the old boys," F. A. French, Clayton Gerould, Diton Phelps, and Malie Tracy, Mrs. Tracy presiding at the organ, and a prayer by Rev. George Britten. After the dinner the exercises were resumed. G. E. Beach, son-in-law of L. W. Forrest, presiding, and were opened by a selection by the quartet, "Rocking on the Billows." A humorous and entertaining talk was given by Diton Phelps, recalling many boyish pranks and school and war memories of early days. He told of the 40 recruits of his company in the Sixth Pennsylvania Reserves of which L. D. Forrest was first lieutenant, and mentioned with much appreciation his kindness in taking him into his own tent and caring for him through several weeks' illness. He said that, including the militia, 300 Smithfield men joined the army. Mr. Britten then sung the "Star Spangled Banner," requesting the audience to join in the chorus. A solo, "Wave High, Dear Flag," in which an actual star spangled banner played its part, was sung by Miss Helen Beach, the little great-granddaughter of Dana Forrest. A paper on "The Olden Times," was read by Selden Tracy. In regard to Dana Forrest and his sons he said:

"Mr. Dana Forrest I have known from my earliest recollection, but I best knew him as a very patriotic man during the terrible war of the Rebellion. The father of seven sons he gave them all to his country and even expressed a willingness to go himself had his age permitted. I very much doubt if a parallel case can be found in the whole history of the war. Seven brothers enlisted and served in the army, and now 42 years since the close of the war, all are still alive. * * * *

"I have an old account book which was my grandfather Tracy's and he had some deal with your grandfather, David Forrest.

"Items copied from that book show prices of certain articles now quite the reverse of those which prevailed a century since. In November, probably 1815, David Forrest is charged with 500 feet of pine boards $3.75. The brothers, however, need feel no anxiety regarding this account, he said. The bill was paid! Nails were 20c and 22c per pound, salt $6.50 per barrel."

Continuing, Mr. Tracy said he had always known the Forrest brothers, all but one of whom had lived in his father's family, and he was glad to call them friends.

"The Old Oaken Bucket" was then sung by the quartet, whose fine voices have given pleasure on many occasions.

A poem by Franklin Tracy gave a vivid picture of earl ytimes and showed the homely tasks of the country belles of that time. The poem follows:

Carding Tow.

When I recall my youthful days
Of sixty years ago,
When mother spun the linen thread,
And Betsy spun the tow;

I often think of Landy's home,
Where rainy days I'd go,
And Molly sitting by my side,
By hand a-carding tow.

The houses then of logs were made,
As older people know,
And every maiden far and near
Was busy carding tow.

My head is getting silvered o'er,
My vision rather dim,
But well remember Nellie's wheel,
With wooden spoke and rim.

And Nellie, too, remember well,
A courtesy would bow,
With dimpled cheek in rosy hue,
Her Sunday frock was tow.

I dimly see the forest yield
To cruel Bony's axe,
And at the barn, hard by the door,
Old daddy dressing flax.

The hetchel frame was made of wood,
The teeth were made of steel,
The only daughter Wilber had
Took lessons on the reel.

The ringlets dangled round her head,
Her snowy neck to grace,
She wore no flounces on her dress,
No varnish on her face.

I plainly see the old log hut,
Where Mary Anna stayed,
And violets along the rill
Where the children played.

When I would woo a maiden fair,
To Sandy's house I'd go,
Cast cupid's darts at Mollie dear,
While she sat carding tow.

But sneaky Tom was watching me,
As he had done before,
Down on his knees a-peeking through
The cat-hole in the door.

A solo, "Good Bye, Annie Laurie," with Annie Laurie as an encore, were beautifully sung by Mrs. Rose Phelps Keeler of St. Johns, Ore.

The front seats were then vacated and the boys and girls invited to take them to listen to the talk, "Advice to Our Grandchildren," Mrs. N. L. Bird had been asked to give them. Mrs. Bird is a ready speaker and a wise counsellor and much excellent advice was given in the few minutes occupied by her. She said in part:

"Always confide in your mother; never listen to anything you may not tell her. Counsel with your father and follow his judgment even when differing from your own. God, your best friend, has given you all your gifts. Use them. Some work is before each one, and a high work it may be."

She gave an earnest warning against the cigarette habit. In conclusion she said: "Love the church and Sunday school, live pure, true, noble lives, doing faithfully the work God gives you; then you will be prepared to enter the Heavenly mansions He has provided for those who love Him. God bless you all."

THE SEVEN FORREST BROTHERS.

DELNO A., LOREN W., WILLIAM B., CHARLES P., LEMAN D., MARCUE, CYRENIUS.

A solo, "The City Beyond," was sung by Mr. Britten, whose voice will be much missed here, as he leaves for his new field in Odessa, N. Y. G. E. Beach joined in the duet chorus.

The principal address of the afternoon was by L. D. Forrest, the subject, "Our Family: The Past, the Present and the Future." It was in part as follows:

"My brothers and sisters and families that are gathered here, and too, our good old friends that are here assembled, I greet you. Now it is usual at a gathering to say something of our genealogy and our ancestors. I have never thought that this is so very important. It matters not in reality, whether we come down from the blood of a lord or from the lowly. Manhood, I have noticed, comes not by inheritance. Lincoln's ancestors were obscure people; J. Wilkes Booth's were well known and had a great newspaper reputation. I have examined the records to some extent and I will call attention of our family to its origin. I had at one time in my possession some letters of an old correspondence. From these it appears that our family came down not from the Plymouth, but from the Jamestown, colony. A widow with a family of boys came there from Scotland, and from her we are descended, as seem to be those of our name of Illinois and Virginia with whom I have talked.

"Our great-grandfather, David Forrest, was born in Houghtonville, Windham county, Vt., June 24, 1754, where he married Abigail Morse. They emigrated to Smithfield, arriving here in February, 1814, and settled in the Southeastern part of the township on lands that were afterward occupied by Spencer Forrest, our grandfather, Joseph Eames, Tertius Rose, and others. He died in Smithfield in 1835, and I have heard Aunt Abigail tell of his falling dead while shaving before a glass still hung on the wall. He was buried with his wife whose death occurred about two years later, in the cemetery on the hill beyond the village. It is related that he had some means, consisting principally of Spanish milled dollars, which he used in the purchase of cattle and so forth, of the early settlers, and it is to be remarked that Nehemiah Tracy and others who received these Spanish shekels used them in the erection of a church instead of for bettering their own worldly condition. At an early time in the War of the Revolution he joined the Continental forces and was in the service until the close of the war and the independence of the colonies was assured. He was later pensioned for his services and was connected with the militia up to the time of his coming to Pennsylvania. He was an ardent admirer of the Wesleys as were many of his children.

"He was but once married and had 12 children: David, Jr., Experience, Olive, our grandfather Daniel, Darius, Esther, Abigail, Susanna, Azubah, Asa, Ira, and Solomon. Our grandfather, Daniel Forrest, was born at Guilford, Vt., and married in the East. In 1814 he came with his father to Smithfield and settled on the farm now occupied by S. H. Perkins, where he resided for some years, returning finally to North Adams, Mass., where he died about 1857. His family consisted of Daniel, Adolphus, Dana, David, William P., Annie and Mary. Annie and Mary married and settled in North Adams. Daniel, David and William P. lived and reared their families in Smithfield, where they and our father are buried. Our father, Dana Forrest, born at Guilford, Windham county, Vt., came to Smithfield with his parents in February, 1814, just before reaching the age of two years, traveling by ox team. He married Margaret M. Eames, who was born in Killingley, Conn., and died in Smithfield in 1868. His death occurred Sept. 2, 1890. To them were born 13 children, ten of whom lived to maturity. Of these all but one, Azubah, the oldest, are still living. She married and lived in Luzerne county, Pa., where she reared a family, and there she died some years ago.

"Our present family conissts of Cyrenius, born in 1831, who resides in Smithfield, Marcus of Nichols, N. Y., Leman D. af Eugene, Ore., Charles D. of Orient, S. D., William B. of Ulster, Pa., Loren W. and Delno A. of East Smithfield, and Isabelle (Mrs. L. R. Titus) and Annie of Providence, R. I.

"My brothers, I want to talk of you. History, the newspapers, have not told of your military deeds. You have not talked of the men you have killed. I have never known of your boasting. I will tell of some of the things you have done. My brother, Loren, and I were in the same company and Horace Keeler and Diton Phelps. They will know something of what I say. But first, those who remained at home should have some praise for their generosity in what they did. After Sumter was fired upon and it was certain that there was to be war, Uncle Henry Phelps came out with his fife, and Erastus Durfey with his drum, and we marched up and down these roads making recruits. It was decided that I should be leader. We had gathered about 40 recruits when Captain Bradbury arrived. He had been recruiting in Eastern and Central Bradford but his men had dwindled away until he had not half enough for a company, and we decided to join forces with them. A meting was held on 'the green.' Long tables were spread and some of the older men went about encouraging the younger ones or contributed money—John Bird, Mr. Niles, James Fritcher, Lyman Durfey, C. B. Riggs, and others, too numerous to mention. The Birds, the Burlingames and the people generally, came out with their teams and took the men to Troy in decorated wagons with fife and drum. Have you ever heard this? Do you think it is right that these things should be credited to others? It is a shame, an outrage. As good fighting material went out at this time from Smithfield as ever went to war. Among them, Horace Keeler, George L. Gardner, L. W. Forrest, and in fact, all the rest.

"I cannot tell all. My oldest brother, Cyrenius, served two enlistments, first from October, 1862, until the next August, in Company C, 171st Regiment Pennsylvania, and again he responded to a call for recruits, serving in Company C, First Regiment New York Light Artillery, and was in the battles of Hatch's Run, Graverly Run, Five Forks, and others. He was discharged May 30, 1865.

"Marcus enlisted in Syracuse, N. Y., September, 1864, in Company H, 185th New York Volunteers, and was right at the front where the missles were flying all around him. He was in the Army of the Potomac and in the battles of Hatch's Run, Five Forks and all the battles that preceeded Lee's surrender.

"Bingley joined Company F, 15th Pennsylvania Volunteers. During this enlistment he was in the battles of Martinsburg, Falling Waters, Harper's Ferry, etc. He was discharged Aug. 7, 1861. He next enrolled in Company C, U. S. Sharpshooters, Berdan's. Discharged in 1864 and in the same year re-enlisted. Discharged by special order for promotion. Commissioned second lieutenant for a company of the Third U. S. Colored troops. Finally discharged Oct. 27, 1865. He took part in all the battles of the Peninsula and in all that occurred in General Grant's campaign, in Virginia.

"Charles joined Company D, 50th New York Engineer Corps, in August, 1861, remaining in the service until June, 1865. His work was most trying, laying pontoons in the face of the enemy. The battles and engagements in which he took part were Fair Oaks, Turkey Run, Yorktown, and battles that followed under General Grant. He came out unharmed.

"Delno, the youngest of the brothers, is now but 59. On Aug. 31, 1864, he was enrolled in Company B, 61st Regiment New York Volunteers; discharged June 5, 1865. He was in the Second Corps, Humphrey's First Division, First Brigade. This regiment was organized and at one time commanded by General Miles. Battles—Hatch's Run, and battles that followed until Lee surrendered. This regiment was always under fire and its losses were the greatest of any in the army. Delno was, however, unharmed.

"My brother Loren, was but a boy when he went out with me. I know more of him than of any of the others, of what he endured and risked. We have stood where the fence posts were perforated with bullets but we were untouched. He was for three years in the Reserve Corps and was in 16 battles including Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Getysburg, and the Wilderness. He re-enlisted, was captured and nearly starved to death in rebel prisons.

"You, children and grandchildren in reading of these things can imagine what you have escaped. It was a providence, more nearly a miracle.

"I want to talk of myself. We had as good a troop of men as anyone, as brave, as loyal to me as to the country. They were my equals, my neighbors and I allowed them to come to my tent and to take some liberties with me on this account.

I was in all the battles in which our regiment was engaged during the campaign of the Peninsula. I was in the second battle of Bull Run, Chantilli, South Mountain, and Antietam. I was present when Duke Gordon, Frank Wheaton, Young Mason, and others were killed; I was present when Horace Keeler and George Gardner, Bennett French, and many others were wounded and nearly killed. Some of our old comrades of Company F who were present at these times are yet living witnesses and to this jury I submit my case.

"My brothers, God has been very good to us. Brother Britten would believe in a direct interposition of Almighty God. The Catholic bids 'fair saints befriend him.' Perhaps our mother's heart was Catholic, too, and her rosary may have been these sons that God sent her and her great saint day when the cruel war was over. I believe her prayers and her influence may have thrown a shield around us.

"Our ages aggregate 587 years, and we are all here in reasonably good health. We have had reverses, struggles. There are some families I want you to remember who have always been our friends. I am glad to see you all here today.

"But now, my friends, there is a time that is right up against us. We are here to say farewell. This is the last breaking of bread. We must realize that we must part, some to go to the Pacific coast, and the Middle West, and to the Atlantic. There is not one chance in one hundred thousand that we meet again. We have been loyal to each other, we have stood shoulder to shoulder, have sympathized with each other. I hardly know how to say—I must say—'Good bye.' We are here to live. If it be only one day let it be a bright one and make the most of it.

"I want to thank Mr. Britten and all that have come and that have helped to make it pleasant. I want this to go to all the old soldiers and to all the old people that we shall never see again. I want to say 'Good bye.'"

The audience then joined in singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." A vote of thanks to those who had rendered the day so pleasant with a feeling word of sympathy for the sorrow of the brothers and sisters at parting, was proposed by E. G. Kingsley in a few appreciative words. It was passed by the company which was then dismissed by the benediction.

A photographer was present and several pictures were taken of the entire company and of the family. The gathering will long be remembered as an unusually pleasant occasion and friends there assembled will wish for the brothers and sisters many reunions in health and prosperity in the years to come.

Another Drowning.

Eli Drake, aged 22 years, was drowned at 8 o'clock Sunday night while swimming in the Chenango river half a mile above the DeForrest steet bridge, in Binghamton. He was about to grasp the bow of the row boat in which he and two friends had been rowing, when he sank. He did not come to the surface again and his body was not recovered until midnight.

The creamery is doing nicely and has about 30 patrons, bringing nearly 6,000 pounds of milk daily.

There is no mistake in the opinion of the people who visit our creamery. It is the neatest and best arranged and easiest to keep clean on account of a concrete floor and other up-to-date fixtures. It also has a first class butter maker, who makes No. 1 butter, which brought the patrons 24½ cents per pound last month.

Corn and Potatoes are growing nicely. They look very encouraging at the present time. Hay is doing nicely on account of the recent showers. It will be a fair crop and will be a week later to harvest this season. Oats are starting nicely, but are either struck with rust or a worm is at the roots destroying it.

D. O'Sullivan took advantage of the recent rains and set several thousand cabbage plants.

Mr. Phelps is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Ephriam Gayett of Athens.

Miss Ruth Fraley attended a convention of a Y. W. C. A. at Silver Bay, N. Y.

James Gorton of Canton, has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Diton Phelps.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Forrest and Mrs. Cheshire of Eugene, Oregon, who have visited here, left for Boston Saturday. Mr. Forrest had been away over 18 years, but his interest in his relatives and old friends had not abated. The genealogical sketch that he gave at the reunion of his family was very interesting.

Rev. E. Stidd of Leona gives an illustrated lecture on the forgotten continent, South America, in the M. E. church Monday evening, July 15.

The most virtuous woman experiences a thrill of pleasure when she discovers that she is the cause of some other woman's jealousy.—Chicago Record-Herald.

An exchange wants to know what a womanless woman is. A womanless woman is a woman who gets on the inside of a very pronounced peek-a-boo waist, then loses her nerve and wraps up in a red shawl.

The new dog tax law is in operation in Pennsylvania. Are the constables and tax collectors in Bradford county seeing that the law is being observed in their respective townships, boroughs and wards?

The man who lies always deceives himself with the idea that he is believed. The truth is that he is both distrusted and hated, not only by honorable men but by all other prevaricators and rogues as well.

New York state papers are claiming that farm premises, under the enforcement of the new sanitary law, especially barnyards, never looked cleaner and better. The farmers now admit that it is a good thing to be under the supervision of a state board of health.

The house built by Benjamin Franklin in the city of Paris is advertised for sale by a real estate agent. The fact that Napolean Bonaparte lived there for a while is alleged to be a circumstance which increases its value.

Finding his mother-in-law sick in bed, a Baltimore man took occasion to carress her with a club, whereupon she got mad and died. Just before passing in her checks, she hised: "I'll see you later," and now the dutiful son-in-law wants to be cremated after he is executed. But then she might kick up his dust.

Filipinos do not seem to appreciate the value of the franchise. They have a law out there requiring every male to register before he can cast a ballot. Out of 19,000 voters in the city of Manila, only 7,300 registered, and that included all the Americans there. When the ward politicians begin to offer money for votes, no doubt they will do better.

A North Towanda township farmer has made a discovery that will be of vast interest to the farmers during a dry season. He has found that by planting onions and potatoes in the same field in alternate rows the onions, being so strong, bring tears to the eyes of the potatoes in such volumes that the roots of the vines are kept moist and a big crop is raised in spite of drought.

The Baltimore Sun is one of the few Southern newspapers that repudiates with scorn and contempt that do it the utmost credit the doctrine which men all over the South are clamoring as a recognized institution of that section, what is fondly called the "unwritten law." It denounces this so-called law as a "relic of a cruder civilization," and it is right. It is placing any man who chooses to invoke it above all law, human or divine. When a people adopt such a creed it is a clear case of reversion to the earlier stages of civilization before the laws were made for the protection and security of human life.

The Southern railway and Atlantic Coast line sought relief against the two-cents-a-mile rate law passed by the North Carolina legislature, and copies of the decision of Judge Pritchard in the United States circuit court at Asheville, N. C., in a test case of a state's right to enforce a law compelling a maximum fare show that the court doubts the constitutionality of the law and therefore continues the injunction until that issue is decided. The court ordered that the railroads put up a bond sufficient to guarantee an indemnity to the passengers and shippers for the differences between the new rates and those charged by the railroads. The bond will hold until the question of constitutionality is settled.

NEW LAW BEING ENFORCED.

It has always been thought that our laws respecting the admission of foreigners who have dangerous, incurable or other diseases were pretty strict, and so they are, but, in spite of them, now and then some of those "undesirable citizens" secure entrance. When detected the ships bringing them are compelled to return them to the place whence they were brought, but that does not cost the steamship companies much, and they run the chances of escaping detection. But on July 1 a new and more strenuous immigration law was put into operation. Not only will the examinations by the medical inspectors be more severe, and not only will the steamship companies be compelled to return the rejected persons to the point of embarkation, but a fine of one hundred dollars will be collected for everey such passenger the ships may bring to this country. That, it it believed, will make the companies more careful in their examinations before they ship immigrants, and give us some relief from the impositions now practiced.

SUBMARINE TORPEDO BOATS.

Recently the metropolitan newspapers were giving extended accounts of the manoeuvres of the Holland and Lake types of submarine torpedo boats off Newport, before the government naval board. The Holland boat is now in the service, but owing to the claim of the owners of the Lake invention that a boat which drops out of sight in a horizontal position is safer than one that dives like a duck, the navy department deemed it fair to give all concerned an opportunity to demonstrate the value of the types. Consequently there were speed tests on the surface and under the water, diving tests, torpedo target firing, and a final test of endurance while submerged. The board decided in favor of the Holland.

The Holland boat was faster both on the surface and under the water, and her diving and reappearance were like those of an amphibious animal. Her crew suffered no inconvenience during the manoeuvres, and her machinery worked to perfection, placing the boat completely under the control of her captain. The Lake boat is very efficient, and performed the various tasks officially laid out for her, but she was less like a ship than the Holland boat and therefore the latter met with more favor. Perhaps the fact that the Holland boat has been in service and is familiar to many naval officers may have had influence. The adoption of the Holland boat carries with it an award of $3,000,000 for the construction of a fleet of submarines.

WHEN A MAN BUILDS.

There is an old book which intimates that the man who undertakes to build a house sits down and carefully computes the cost of the venture before beginning building operations. He knows how much money he will be able to command and he doesn't want to embark upon the project unless he is clearly convinced that he is going to be able to make both ends meet.

A new and somewhat more vague and infinite system seems to be springing up in modern times This is especially true of public building operations. In the furnishing of the new state capitol, for instance, nobody seems to have counted the cost, so far as the state was concerned, and the method of letting contracts was certainly calculated to run up a bill of expense that the prudent private builder would have taken pains to avoid.

We know nothing about the "unit" plan of letting contracts except that under is provisions it appears that the amount the builder will be obliged to pay the contractor cannot be ascertained until after the work has been done. Of course when it is the public purse that is involved there is not likely to be any bankruptcy But the ordinarily wise individual usually likes to see where he is going to come out before he assumes obligations which might otherwise swamp him.

LOOK OUT FOR THE BABIES.

One may expect soon to see the death columns of the newspapers lengthen. Hot weather is good for the growing corn and other crops, but in a great many cases it is fatal to the babies. In more instances than one might suppose it is because less attention is paid to the proper cultivation of babies than of corn.

Babies should be fed regularly. They should be given pure milk, obtained from a trustworthy dealer. The man who has babies of his own and who loves babies, is the best dealer under ordinary circumstances. His affection for his own will lead him to think of the welfare of others' little ones. His heart will not permit him to wrong the children.

With pure milk, very little other food, cool clothing, avoidance of crowds or of the sun's rays, the baby ought to have a fair chance for its life through this Summer. At all events if constant care be taken and it still prove in vain, the mother will feel that she is not to blame.

Alabama proposes to keep motorists off the public roads and to require them to build highways of their own. This is the most drastic law which has yet been suggested to restrain reckless driving by automobilists on the public highways.

Parents who allow their young sons to play with firearms are always prostrated over fatal accidents occurring from the careless handling of the deadly weapons.

NOT ALARMED.

Admiral Dewey is our Grand Old Man of the Sea. He is as cool as a blast from the North Pole, while others grow hot in the collar. He does not chafe over the Japanese situation, but says the American people have no reason to predict serious trouble with Japan or any other nation on account of any dispute now in sight. He regrets that the United States navy is not large enough for duty in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans at the same time,, but he hopes that it is large enough to be effective at the present time. He believes that if the Philippines or Hawaii should fall into foreign hands the foreigners would be wise enough to leave at the approach of the United States navy. If any power in Europe should be ambitious to take advantage of the absence of the navy while the battleships are in the Pacific, any attempted invasion can be repelled by the army. In his opinion our coast defenses have been put into excellent condition, and will be able to contend with whatever comes.

Admiral Dewey knows everything about the situation. If there are places of thin ice in our national defense he is not pointing them out for the "comfort and satisfaction of foreigners." And he is not a man to attempt to deceive the American people into a false assurance of safety in the face of danger. When he says Uncle Sam is all right, and the country is safe he should be believed.

A part of his interview is educational and should instruct the people. He says the climate of the Philippines is not suitable for a military rendezvous. It is enervating, and no constitution can remain unimpaired and resourceful there. When his fleet arrived there from the North the Spaniards could not fight. And when his fleet sailed away the sailors had lost a large share of the vim and snap and rebound they possessed when they left Hong Kong for Manila. All the natives of the Far East are weak and effeminate, and not effective as fighting men. It is natural that a long residence there should effect foreigners in the same way.

The United States must depend upon the Pacific coast ports for national defense, and cannot expect effective service from men who have become enervated by living in the tropics. Any power in the tropics must place its principal dependence for power and permanence in Northern backing.—Binghamton Republican.

UNDERSTANDING.

The habit of being content with nothing less than understanding a thing is of inestimable worth to every man, young or old. No difference what one's occupation or responsibility, his first task is to understand what it is his part to do. The boy who has constantly to be reminded of duties or the workman who must be continually told how to perform his work will never become valuable industrial assets or successes. Understanding means not only to know a thing before one's eyes, but to know a task, a position or an opportunity in its relations to other things. Of course, this requires some thinking, to have a comprehensive view or grasp of any piece of work in its rightful relations. The man who does becomes a captain of industry. The man who does not very rarely gets beyond the trade he learns. No good and efficient man works under sealed orders. Most men have plenty of light to make sure they are on the right track, but are not doing things in the right way. Success in life is not an accident, but a matter of seeing clearly and acting intelligently. We too often shoulder on fortune blame that is due to our own defects or habits.

ENDLESS BUTTER MAKING.

It is stated that a professor in the Kansas State Agricultural college has devised what is aptly called an "endless chain of butter making," by taking the buttermilk which is now a waste product of the dairies, drying and compressing it, and feeding cows on it. This is said to form a cheap and profitable method of securing milk of excellent quality for buttermaking. All very well, but who ever heard of buttermilk being a "waste product?" What is not used for many comforting purposes to man, is put into the swill barrel to make fat shoats. Instead of buttermilk being a drag in the farm market there is generally not enough of it to go around liberally in the pig pen. If the endless chain process of buttermaking becomes popular, how will we raise fat, white shoats?

Almost any man looking into his own mind will conclude that imprisonment for life for murder is nothing in comparison with the electric chair as a penalty for that crime. New Jersey is sending a man to Europe to study penalties in their apparent effect as deterrents to the act. It ought not to be overlooked that it is something to cut off those who show the cruel instinct of murder.—Buffalo Evening News.

Former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, who is now a resident of New York, and president of a bank in that city, is credited by the Herald with a witty description of the sultry subway as given by a foreigner: "It was so hot that I lost my breath, and when I caught it again it was not my own." Mr. Shaw doesn't ride in the subway.

Just think of that Shamokin bride disposing of a lot of second hand kisses at $1 per. The pure food fellers ought to get after her, before she gets it in her nod to come to Towanda.

AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT.

The auditor general's report for 1905 is out at last, and of the capitol expenditures and graft, all it shows is that the Sanderson-Payne-Huston-Cassel gang received over $3,000,000 during that year. The items are lumped in a most suspicious way as if the intent was to hide something. If Auditor General Snyder did not know what was going on on Capitol Hill in 1905, why was he ashamed to publish his report and ignore the law? If he thought publication would hurt the party, then he acknowledges the Organization was not acting honestly. That delayed report in many ways puts Snyder and the Gang in a very bad, dirty hole. Surely it is time to clean out the Hill from scrub woman to superintendents and the heads of departments.—Lancaster Examiner.

THE WELL DRESED WOMAN.

The woman who is always well and neatly dressed is able to exercise a greater influence for good than one who is the reverse. The well dressed woman is attractive to the eye and the eye is one of the main avenues to the heart. Other things being equal, her influence is more potent than her neighbor's, whose reputation of dressing "just as it happens" at home, in some indefinable way casts a shade over whatever virtue she may possess A woman neatly dressed is ready for emergencies. The chance caller and the unexpected guest finds her ready to receive them. But perhaps the greatest necessity for looking well at home exists in the home itself. To the members of their famflies they owe their first duty.

Dr. Schaeffer's desire to have peace taught in schools is all right within bounds, but it is not the man that can shoot straight that is always hunting trouble.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

WOODBURN—PETERS.

Towanda Young Lady Becomes Bride of Binghamton Gentleman.

The handsome Main street residence of Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Woodburn was the scene of a very pretty home wedding on Wednesday, when their accomplished daughter, Miss Isabella E. Woodburn, became the bride of Charles H. Peters of Binghamton. The ceremony was solemnized at high noon by Rev. J. S. Stewart, D.D., pastor of the Presbyterian church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The interior of the Woodburn home was tastefully trimmed with daisies and ferns, and everything was in keeping with the happy occasion. Miss Laura Peters of Chenango Forks, N. Y., a niece of the groom, presiding at the piano played Mendelssohn's wedding march preceding the ceremony. There were no attendants.

Following the ceremony an elegant wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Peters left on train No. 7 for a wedding journey to the Thousand Islands and Canadian points, and on their return will take up their residence in Binghamton, where Mr. Peters is identified with several large business interests. Miss Woodburn, who became the bride of Mr. Peters, is one of Towanda's most estimable and accomplished young ladies. For the past year she has been a member of the High school faculty of Syracuse, N. Y., and as a school teacher has been very successful. Both she and her husband have a host of friends to extend congratulations and wish them all the joys and happiness in life.

Among those present at the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. Hough of Binghamton, Mrs. Lance, Mrs. Peters and son, and Miss Laura Peters of Chenango Forks, N. Y., Miss Kate Kuhl of New York, and John D. Stryker of Duluth.

PROMISING YOUTH.

Started Out to Do Murder, But Compromised on Larceny.

John Wargo, 17 years of age, residing in South Scranton, bought a revolver on Saturday night, with the avowed intention of killing his father, who drew his wages, amounting to $18, without the lad's knowledge or consent. At the last moment he changed his mind, and instead of committing murder, it is alleged that he stole $30 and disappeared.

It was pay day on Saturday at the Pine Brook mine, in which place young Wargo worked. When he went to the colliery to draw his money, he found that his father was there before him and received his wages. Wargo is not living with his family. He boarded with a Mrs. Amonsika, who calmed the lad and apparently reconciled him to his loss. When she went to his room Monday morning, she found that Wargo had left the city with $30 of her money.

The boy is one of the family of seven Wargos who were before court, last Spring, for clothes line thefts.

SOUTHERN BRADFORD STORM SWEPT.

Rain, Hail and Lightning Cause Damage in Wyalusing and Vicinity.

The Wyalusing Rocket says: "A terrific electrical storm passed over this place Monday afternoon, accompanied by hail and heavy wind. For a few minutes there was a continual display of lightning, the bolts apparently striking all around. Following the display of electrical power came an extremely heavy shower and a strong wind which blew down trees in Wyalusing borough and tore many limbs from shade trees. Hail stones an inch in diameter were picked up in various parts of town, in appearance more like chips of ice than the usual round and heavier hail stone. Besides from shade and fruit trees injured and destroyed, there was no other damage.

"One bolt struck the barn on the J. T. Stalford farm just before H. Lamphere, who had been driven in by the storm, got into the barn. The lightning seemed to be in a sheet about 40 feet wide, knocking the shinglies from the roof and doing some other slight damage. On farther up the creek from West's to Merryall the hail got in its work and drove the crops down and broke out some window panes.

"The great part of the storm went to the East and South of this place, at Spring Hill hail stones being picked up that measured from four to five inches in circumference, and some damage to crops was reported from there. Camptown, Homets Ferry, Stevensville, and points in that territory, seemed to escape without any great damage, there being a heavy storm with some hail, but no material injury to crops or property."

Butter Kept Fresh for 20 Years.

A Mansfield correspondent says: "A former attache of the sheriff's office of Tioga county 20 years ago sold a certain piece of real estate in a neighboring township to its present owner on a writ issued by a creditor. On the premises was a very deep well, about 40 feet, that carried continually half that depth of water. Not long since the present proprietor took it as necessary that he clean the well, so he supplanted the old-fashioned bucket and sweep with a modern pump, and pumped it dry. In the bottom of the well he found a tightly-covered tin pail, and, on opening it, there was displayed a roll of butter that was as fresh and sweet as if made the day before. It had undoubtedly been let down the well with a rope into the water 20 years before, to keep it cool. The rope had parted and the pail had gone to the bottom."

Young People Entertained.

An enjoyable company of young friends assembled at the home of Edmund Barrett, on Charles street, Tuesday evening in response to invitations issued to a social gathering, given by John A. Barrett. The hand was terribly cut, necessitating a dozen stitches to close the wounds, but fortunately no fingers were cut off. Dr. T. Ben Johnson dressed the young man's injuries.

Exhibited Here Many Years Ago.

There are living in Towanda today many people who saw the Van Amburg circus when it exhibited here 57 years ago. The tents were pitched on Poplar street, near where the residence of R. M. Welles is now located. The grandfather of the present head of the enterprise was then sole owner and manager of the show.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY SEAT.

TWO COURT OPINIONS.

Judge Fanning Decides Two Quite Important Controversies.

Judge Fanning has handed down two opinions which are of more than ordinary interest.

In the re-petition for a change and alteration of a highway in Sheshequin township, the court has decided that the road commissioners and supervisors must proceed and carry out the wishes of the petitioners within 20 days. A large number of Sheshequin township citizens petitioned for the change and alteration of a certain piece of road in that township, but the road commissioners and supervisors acting on the advice of attorneys, refused to make the alterations, contending that a recent act of the legislature repealed the act of April 13, 1843, which makes it compulsory upon them to act upon a petition. The court holds that the new law does not affect the old law, and that the road commissioners and supervisors must proceed and carry out the provisions of the petition within 20 days.

Taxes Must Be Paid.

In the case of the Central Pennsylvania Lumber company vs. Barclay township, and W. F. Waters, treasurer of Bradford county, the court holds that the Lumber company must pay taxes on property in Barclay township. The Lumber company owns 343 acres of unseated lands in Barclay township which were assessed at $1,740, and returned to the county commissioners for that amount. The taxes not being paid the commissioners issued a warrant to County Treasurer Waters to sell the land for the taxes. The court sustains the demurer opines that the taxes were properly levied and must be paid, and that the costs shall also be paid by the plaintiff Lumber company.

Stopped the Train.

Trainriders, it is alleged, stopped a fast freight train at East Towanda early Saturday evening, and that a wreck did not result is a miracle. The train only numbered 30 cars and was running at least 25 miles an hour when all of a sudden it came to a stop, within the length of the train. Three men alighted, and after a short time the train proceeded. It is alleged that the train riders cut the air on one of the cars, setting the brakes and causing the train to stop very suddenly so they could get off at Towanda.

Monroeton Wants to Take a Hand.

Monroeton has a base ball team which was organized this week, and under the management of Charles Meredith, will play any team in the county. They are very anxious to get in the Towanda-Ulster controversy and play either team, any time at any place. The new team which will represent Monroeton starts out with $100 in the treasury and all kinds of enthusiasm, and a bunch of players that will make them all go some to win. Northrup of Bucknell university, is captain of the club.

Miss Rickey Surprised.

About 40 of the pupils of Miss Helen M. Rickey a popular and efficient teacher in the First ward schools, paid her a surprise visit at her home on Third street Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was pleasantly spent, and was an occasion of much enjoyment for both hostess and guests. Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Drowned in the Susquehanna.

The young man, with other companions, were swimming between the first and second piers. When some distance away from his companions, Lewis was seized with cramps and sank before assistance could reach him.

NO LIGHTS--NOT YET

Village Solons Had Discussfest Monday Evening.

ANOTHER EXECUTIVE SESSION

What Was Done is a Mystery, But it is Alleged the Councilmen Did the Usual Amount of Talking and That is All.

The village solons met in adjourned session Monday night for the purpose of considering matters relative to the new paving and also the matter of street lights. The former was considered carefully and much made clear that was heretofore a mystery. The latter—well what was done along that line is for conjecture, but it is stated on good authority that the councilmanic body did talk the matter over, in private, or to be a little more explicit and high sounding, they emulated the United States Senate when some fiery member is about to say something which would not look well in print, and went into executive session.

All members were present except Mr. McCabe, President Cox ocupying the chair. The first part, that is the open meeting, was a discussfest on the paving matter. Some of the councilmen did not understand how the work was being done, the wages that were being paid the men, etc. While this matter was under consideration, William Maxwell, Esq., William Scott and P. Gus Lewis were given an audience and heard relative to sidewalk propositions. After that some member of council passed the word that "the light matter be discussed in executive session," and it was done, so it is alleged.

YOUNG WOMAN INSANE.

Eliza Armstrong, Former Resident of Towanda, Taken Into Custody.

Misfortune has overtaken the family of Mrs. Sarah Armstrong, of Marion, Ohio, her daughter, Eliza Belle Armstrong, becoming suddenly insane on Friday of last week. Mrs. Armstrong is a daughter of Douglas Wilson, a well known Towanda colored man, and she with her family were for many years residents of this borough. A Marion newspaper of Friday gives the following account of the sad misfortune which has come upon the family:

"Officer James Cusic was summoned to the home of Sarah Armstrong of Park street, shortly before noon, Friday, to protect her and her daughter from a younger daughter of Mrs. Armstrong, who for a short time was almost a maniac in her devastation of household goods. The daughter, Eliza Belle, suddenly became insane and started to tear up the house.

"Officer Cusic found the house in a bad state of disorder. The girl had partially recovered and had gone to a neighbor's house, where the officer found her.

"Mrs. Searles, a sister of the girl, appeared before Judge Foster and made an affidavit of lunacy against the young woman. Sheriff Brown went to the house and he and Officer Cusic brought the girl to the jail, where she will be kept until the hearing."

BEAT THE BLACK DIAMOND.

Man Rode on the Roof of the Famous Lehigh Train.

Most any one can beat their way on a freight train, and some can ride on passenger trains without handing out a ticket or so much cold coin, but to "deadhead" on the Black Diamond is a trick that few try and hardly any succeed in doing. The stunt was successfully performed Monday afternoon, but by whom, it is not known.

As the famous train passed East Towanda, a man was noticed clinging to the top of a coach in the train. His hold was secure and all that could be seen of him as the train rushed by was the outline of his form on the roof of the coach. How he retained his position on the rounded top of the car is a mystery, but he was there and appeared just as comfortable as those in the palace coaches. A telegram was sent to Tunkhannock, the first stopping place of the train after leaving Towanda, and the man was to be arrested there if alive.

LUMBERMAN INJURED.

Mahlon Price of Grover, Badly Hurt By Log at Laquin.

Mahlon Price, aged about 55 years, was seriously injured while at work in the lumber woods at Laquin on Thursday. He was hauling logs down the mountain side, with horse and chain, and on reaching a very steep place the log became lodged against a small stump. Price succeeded in dislodging the heavy timber when the horse started up causing the log to roll on top of him and over his body the entire length.

He was terribly crushed and bruised and was taken to the Williamsport hospital for treatment. It is feared internal injuries will develop serious complications.

Insane From Grieving.

Despondency caused by the death of his wife several weeks ago, has made James Clark of Plymouth, insane. Authorities have taken charge of the case and he was committed to the insane asylum at Retreat.

UNPROVOKED ASSAULT.

Edward Frost Pushed Over River Bank By Intoxicated Individual.

Edward Frost of the J. O. Frost Sons company, was the victim of an unprovoked assault Monday afternoon, which might have resulted seriously but fortunately did not. He was pushed over the river near the wagon bridge by a man named Wells, who was intoxicated and came upon him unawares, giving him a shove which sent him over the enbankment. Outside of a few minor bruises, Mr. Frost escaped injury. Wells is in the lockup and in addition to the charge of being drunk and disorderly will have to answer to the charge of assault and battery.

Mr. Frost was on the roadway in the lower end of the Frost lumber yard, and Michael Fitten who drives the team on the factory wagon, was coming under the wagon bridge along the river road. Mr. Frost was watching the oncoming team and did not notice two intoxicated men approaching. Just as they came up to where he was standing, one of the men whose name is Wells, reached out and with all his might gave him a shove, sending him over the bank down toward the river.

Mr. Fitten sprang from the wagon and grabbed Wells, who began fighting like a mad man. Mr. Frost hurried up the bank and ran up to Main street summoned Chief Miller and when the reached the scene Mr. Fitten was holding on to Wells for all he was worth, and Wells was still struggling to free himself from Fitten's iron grasp. Chief Miller placed Wells under arrest and, huried him to the lockup. He will have a hearing before Burgess Foyle this morning.

There is no excuse for Wells' actions other than that he was intoxicated. He was a stranger to Mr. Frost and could have had no malice toward him, unless it was a fancied grievance coddled up in his booze bewildered brain.

FOUND IN WOODS.

Duryea Boy was Absent From Home Twenty-four Hours.

Alone in the woods opposite Taylor, Luzerne county, and exposed to storm and hunger, Joseph Klutcknik, aged seven years, who had been missing from his home at Duryea since Monday, was found Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by a party of men who had been searching for him for 24 hours. The little fellow was hurried to his home in a carriage, and although in a serious condition it is expected that he will recover.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Klutcknik of Duryea. Monday morning his brother went on a berrying trip to the mountains. About 7 o'clock the little fellow was heard to say that he was going to follow his brother, but no attention was paid to the remark. Shortly after he was seen to leave the yard and start in the direction his brother had taken. This was the last seen of him until he was found by the men Tuesday afternoon. According to where he was found, he must have traveled many miles in his wanderings through the woods trying to find his way home, as Taylor is about five miles from his home.

Drilled Out Dynamite.

Ziba Lott of Springville, was taken to Wilkes-Barre hospital on July 4 to be treated for injuries received while working in Lott Brothers' stone quarry. He had drilled a hole and put in a charge of dynamite, which failed to explode. Some time afterward he thought to remove the explosive by drilling it out. He had not progressed very far with the work when a spark from the drill set the dynamite off. The explosion blew him some distance, badly burning his face. It was thought at first that he would lose at least one eye, but present indications are that he will come out in fairly good shape. —Tunkhanock New Age.

In Favor of Old Home Week.

The Review's suggestion for an old home week in September, 1908, is meeting with hearty favor by the absent sons and daughters of old Bradford county. Several communications from natives of the county in lands afar have been received and all want an old home week. George Fairchild, a former Towandian, now located in Boston, in writing to this paper concludes by saying, "Glad to know that you are planning on an old home week in September, 1908."

At John Piollet's the horse endeavored to turn into the yard the carriage stuck a gate post and upset, breaking off the back. The horse escaped uninjured.

A LARGE CROWD.

The Van Amburg Show an Attractive One.

The Van Amburg show, which for years has traveled through the country, and which was founded by Peter Van Amburg many years ago, and which since his death, has been successfully managed by his sons and grandsons, will appear in Towanda, on Saturday, July 20.

The excellent parade is a guarantee that the show is all right. The menagerie part of the show is one of the best extant, and from the variety of its exhibits is instructive and interesting alike to adults and children. The managers have secured Prof. Ferris, the renowned writer and naturalist, and the variety of its exhibits is the most pleasing feature.

The animals are all interesting to look upon. The elephants and the monkeys are on deck to beg for peanuts and popcorn. The ponies are a delight to the children, and it is often noticed that many of the older people become enthusastic to the play, simply because it is so pleasing to the children.

The show will leave a lot of money in the town, paying out enormous sums each day for supplies. The question of meat alone is quite an item. Each lions eats 60 pounds of meat a day, and the tiger 30 pounds; other cat animals eat from 12 to 18 pounds. Baby, the largest elephant in the world, and which weighs 10,000 pounds, is eating all the time, and her infant son, "Major," does his best to keep up with his mother. Any one who has an opportunity of learning something about the supplies purchased for a large show knows that they include two entire beeves daily, 450 loaves of bread, nearly 20 bushels of potatoes, 25 pounds of butter, 30 gallons of milk, dried fruit and canned goods to the value of $50 each day. In addition to this, there is consumed large quantities of eggs, poultry, fish, vegetables, etc. For the horses there are provided 10 bushels of oats, three tons of hay, a ton of straw, 200 bushels of bran, 100 bushels of corn, etc. One of the most commendable features of the great Van Amburg shows is the gentlemanly conduct of every one connected with it. This is a subject of much comment in almost every place this big show exhibits.

There will be special excursion rates on all the railroads.

UNDRESSED ON YORK AVENUE.

Supposed Woman Caused Considerable Excitement Friday Morning.

There was great excitement on York avenue early Friday morning, and as a result several women and two bashful men came near fainting. It all started when a "she," or apparently a "she," commenced to dance around and disrobe.

First came off a peek-a-boo waist, then corset cover with dainty blue baby ribbon running through it here and there, and after a few minutes' tugging came some false hair followed by a full outfit which is generally used to make a female attractive and desirable. Women screamed, and two men in a wagon drove at top speed for an officer thinking "she" was daffy. A tall distinguished looking gentleman with red cheeks and wearing a noisy passionate necktie hove in sight and just like the horrid man in a story book, some story book, impossible to say just which one, walked right up to the disrobed creature, and just as he was about to say to her, "you're it," she turned around and proved that she was a he.

It was only a big mischievous boy with a full outfit of women's clothes, tied, sewed and pinned on him, and he never dreamed as he pulled them off he was creating several kinds of consternation among mortal beings in the neighborhood.

Cleaned Stones From Road.

Fisher Welles employed a force of boys the first of the week to clean the streets of this borough and vicinity of the numerous stones that mar the enjoyment of the drivers of automobiles. It would be a good plan if the officers, whose duty it is to attend to this, would obey the law and see that all roads are kept clean of stones during the Summer months. The Creek road is said to be especially bad and some others of the county's thoroughfares could very safely be given this needed attention.—Wyalusing Rocket.

Two Good Amusements.

PARDON FOR BOWMAN.

Luzerne County Life Termer Will Be Released From Penitentiary.

The Board of Pardons Wednesday decided to recommend a pardon for William Penn Bowman of Wilkes-Barre. The crime for which Bowman was convicted of murder in the first degree was the murder of John Mike, an Arabian pedler, on Sept. 20, 1894. Bowman was sentenced to death, but this was afterwards changed to life imprisonment, and it is this sentence which he is now serving.

Several efforts have been made to secure Bowman's pardon, as it was not he who fired the shot which killed the Arabian, and because Metzgar, the companion, who did this, has already been set at liberty. All previous efforts have failed, however, but his attorneys, Joseph Moore and Col. T. R. Martin, have never despaired, and now that they have secured a recommendation for his pardon, they and the prisoner's friends are correspondingly elated.

The Crime.

The story of the crime for which Bowman was sentenced to life imprisonment is as follows:

Bowman and a companion named Metzgar were seated near the D. and H. bridge, in Wilkes-Barre, on the date of the crime, when two pedlers came along. The young men called one of them to where they were, and while Bowman was examining some of his wares Metzgar pulled a revolver and fired the shot which killed the pedler.

A month or so later Bowman admitted his connection with the crime, but denied that he had any knowledge of his companion's intent. He was tried and convicted of murder in the first degree, but a respite was obtained and several months later Metzgar was captured. He was also tried and convicted of murder in the second degree, after which he made a statement, in which he admitted that it was he who fired the fatal shot, and not Bowman. This statement led to the changing of sentence of Bowman from death to life imprisonment.

Metzgar has been free since the early part of April, his sentence, with the exception of good behavior, having been served, and it seemed an injustice that the lesser offender should have been saddled with the greater punishment.

"Special trains will carry the companies and their friends here on the morning of the 26th, and return them home in the evening of the same date. Ample quarters and accommodations have been engaged so that the immense crowd will be taken care of in the best possible manner. Details and schedule train service will be published next week.

"The borough council is acting with the executive committee for the prevention and prohibition of all gambling and games of chance. Special officers from nearby cities, in plain clothes, will keep a sharp lookout for pick-pockets and sharpers.

"There will be ball games on both days of the convention. Galeton and Addison will play the first day and the winner will play Antrim the second day. The convention will be a hummer and we desire the assistance of all to make it so."

BOY SHOT BY HIS PLAYMATE.

Terrible Shooting Accident at Wellsboro on Sunday.

A fatal shooting accident occured at Wellsboro about noon Sunday when three boys were playing with a small 22 calibre rifle near the Jackson place, just out of town toward Stokesdale. As a result young John Gararallo, aged 12 years, was shot in the head and almost instantly killed.

John and his brother, Frank, who is about a year older than he, and Harry Able, a boy of 14 years, had started to hunt for squirrels. They had stopped under an apple tree on the Able place and had discussed the probability of having to watch with the gun to keep theives away when the apples became ripe. They had decided what they should do in such a case, and it was when the started on and Able was putting the gun to his shoulder that the acidental discharge took place.

Justice of the Peace Otis Davis was called to act as coroner as Dr. Longwell was away. The coroner's jury completely exonorated young Able and pronounced the shooting as purely accidental. The boy was known by the name of Jack and was one of the brightest and best liked boys in the neighborhod. His father, Leander Gararallo, and mother and four brothers and one sister survive him.

Binghamton Motormen Who Struck Wanted Horible Revenge.

Lewis Eastman and John N. Bennis, former motormen of the Binghamton Railway company, two of the men who struck several months ago, were arrested Saturday night.

In each man's pocket was found a pound of dynamite, which Eastman is said to have admitted that he intended to place on the track to blow up an electric car. He also is said to have admitted placing dynamite in the track on Thursday, the rain soaking it so that it failed to explode.

Bennis, it is said, admitted complicity in the dynamite plot.

Woman in Durance Vile.

Mrs. Henrietta Reazor was given a hearing before Justice Johnson, in Athens, Friday afternoon on the charge of assaulting Mrs. G. B. VanSice, and was held in the sum of $250 bail to await the action of the next grand jury. The evidence showed that Mrs. Reazor made things lively with her tongue over in Cotton Hollow on the day of the alleged assault, handing out a line of "Wierdwebster" and profanity that would make a pirate go way back and keep still. Mrs Reazor and Arthur Munn were arrested on the charge of adultery but each waived a hearing and in default of bail were brought to the county jail Saturday morning by Constable McGovern.

Clarke Reunion.

BELIEVES TOAZ SUICIDED.

Silas Compton Thinks That Remorse Drove Constable to Kill Himself.

Silas Compton who recently returned to Bradford county from Michigan, where he was tried and acquitted of the charge of murdering Mizer Lampman, believes that Constable Toaz suicided. Compton gave out the following information to a Charlotte newspaper, before leaving Michigan:

"Remorse killed Tom Toaz," was the reply Compton made in answer to the question as to what motive the Grand Ledge man could have had for ending his life. Compton thinks that the testimony offered by the prosecution and especially that of Mrs. Electa Compton, was a bitter disappointment to the Grand Ledge officer. "Why," said Compton, "Mrs. Compton herself had to laugh at the ridiculousness of several of her statements and I could not help but think myself when that woman was giving her testimony that my life perhaps depended on the statements of such witnesses.

"The day before his death I met Tom during the recess and he gave me a cigar and asked me how I was feeling. We had a short chat, but, as I recall, neither of us spoke about the case. While poor Toaz is gone and I have no desire to say an unkind word against him, I honestly believe that he was worried about the merits of this case and couldn't stand it any longer. Friends of Toaz may advance a motive for the suicide, but you can never make me believe anything but that his conscience troubled him. Toaz used me fine at the time he brought me to Michigan and I could have cried when I heard the poor fellow had been murdered in his own home. The first thing I thought of was the effect it would have on the jury, who might believe sympathizers of mine had committed the murder."

LITTLE GIRL TERRIBLY INJURED.

Three Years Old Tot Mangled by Mowing Machine, Near Nichols.

A terrible accident occurred about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning on the Kingsland farm, about a mile from Nichols, which is just over the Bradford county line, in York state, in which a three years old girl was mangled so badly by a mowing machine that it is feared that both legs will need to be amputated, if she does not lose her life. She is the daughter of Prof. Charles E. Kingsland of New York, who was spending a vacation on the farm of his father, N. E. Kingsland.

The grandfather was driving a team hitched to a mowing machine and the father was in an adjoining field. The little girl was in the field with her grandfather and, it is thought started to carry a pail of water to her father and must have fallen in front of the knives of the machine. Her grandfather, at the time, was watching a cow in another direction and did not see the child's danger until the accident occurred.

Dr. Everett was called and he took the injured child in his automobile and went to Sayre as rapidly as was consistent under the conditions. At the Packer hospital examination showed that the child was terribly injured, both legs being badly mangled. The hospital surgeons have hopes of saving both limbs from amputation.

The rose breasted grosbeak is one of the few birds that seem to relish a good fat potato grub.

It is the small saving and prudent management during early years that are responsible for the difference between comfort and poverty in old age.

A cultivation of the potato field after the vines are ripe and even dead will greatly reduce the production of the weed seed which usually matures after the crop is laid by.

Not all folks can be missionaries, through lack of opportunity or ability, but there are none whose talents are so modest that they cannot be kind and helpful in the home and neighborhood life.

Kindness shown farm animals is not only justifiable from the standpoint of financial profit, but also because it exerts a reflex influence upon the character and disposition of the person who has the care of them.

With a little careful training in the first few weeks young turkeys can be taught so that they will keep the cabbage patch free from the green worm which is the worst pest it has to contend with.

Only the greatest benignity and leniency on the part of the weather man will permit the most belated fields of a uniformly belated corn crop to mature ears of sufficient soundness to keep through the winter.

As a rule, that is the most commendable system of farm management under which a maximum amount of animal fertilizers is produced. Not only more money is made under such a system, but there is a constant increase in soil fertility.

Fruit of all kinds is about three weeks late in all of the northern states. In the locality where the writer lives home grown strawberries, which are usually on the market by the 7th of June, did not show up this year until the 28th.

In horsedom the rule also holds good that "to him that hath shall be given," for it is usually the horse that has the slimmest bill of fare that has to spend most time and energy fighting flies, while the well fed animal is usually provided with good nets.

Williston, Fla., is the center of a district which last year produced 56,000 baskets of cucumbers to supply northern markets and this year expects to produce in the neighborhood of 70,000 baskets, making it one of the leading "cuke" producing centers of the country.

There is no fruit which is more luscious when picked at the proper stage than blackberries, and also no fruit which appears in more limited quantities on the average market. The work connected with the winter covering of the vines and the disagreeable work of picking doubtless account for the fact that this prime fruit is not more generally raised.

It is quite apparent that a method for the proper handling of an orchard in one part of the country, this touching whether clean cultivation should be given or the orchard allowed to run to grass and mulch given the trees, may not be the best for an orchard located in a different section and growing under different meteorological and soil conditions. The care of the orchard is in a sense an individual matter, each tract needing a thorough study and handling in a manner best suited to its needs.

There are localities in some of the western states where instead of killing wolves and other predatory animals farmers have been known to protect them to the extent of leaving them undisturbed so that they might receive a bounty on the pelts of their young. Where such a condition of things exists it is quite safe to conclude that the damage which such animals do by preying on stock and poultry is not equal to the bounty which the farmer hopes to realize from a capture of the young. That destruction of predaceous animals which takes place when no bounty is offered is not only the most economical from the standpoint of the taxpayers, but the most effective as well.

The influence of food upon the physical strength and economic efficiency of a people is well illustrated in the report which comes from the districts of Lindau and Allgau, Germany. In years gone by these districts were noted for the physical strength and robustness of their young men who presented themselves for service in the army. Recently, in an examination of 604 young men for the service, only twenty were declared qualified. Two hundred and seventeen were listed as doubtful, while 367 were declared wholly unfit for army service. This deterioration in condition is declared to be the result of substitution of a diet of skim milk and potatoes instead of a diversified ration of which meat and milk were a part.

WHY SHE FADES.

There is probably no occupation wherein the duties which devolve upon those who engage in it are more omnipresent and insistent than those to be found upon the average American farm. While this is true of the field and other outdoor work, it is especially so of the labor which falls to the lot of the good housewife—the proper management of the household and the performance of the many duties connected therewith and those which are involved in the care of the dairy, the poultry and the garden. Even in homes where every possible convenience is provided for the doing of work most easily and conveniently the burden of it is both heavy and exacting. Where such helps are not provided it is heavier than any woman ought to bear. The instances are all too frequent where the newly married wife entered upon her duties in the farmhouse with full health and enthusiasm, but with physical strength and endurance far below those of her husband for his outdoor work and inadequate to meet the strains which in the very nature of things are bound to fall upon her. Little children usually come into the home in the early years to add materially to cares and responsibilities already existing. Before many years have passed the freshness and bloom are gone from the cheek, and there is a decided stoop in shoulders which once were straight and supple. Often at forty, if not before, when she ought to be at the prime of physical strength and condition, she is dispirited and broken down. Quite likely the husband, possessed of greater strength at the start and engaging in work which is out of doors, has not realized the burden which his wife has borne in uncomplaining spirit until a doctor has to be called to minister to the tired body and overwrought nerve forces. Fortunate if the damage done is not irreparable, all too often the case. To avert such a condition there should be somewhat more of consideration and sympathy on the part of the husbands, the hiring of indoor help during the busiest season of the year, as much of change and outing as possible—perhaps two or three weeks' cessation from the routine of work in a visit to the folks—but, above all else, a daily expression of love and appreciation from the one for whom she labors freely and gladly. This wife can journey with you but once. Lighten her labors as much as possible and fill her life with as much of sunshine and gladness as you may, and both she and you will reap the reward of the kindness you bestow.

WORK A BLESSING.

As many elderly people get out of condition and take to their beds as a result of sudden cessation from work as do from the effect of continued overwork. The physical constitution of elderly people does not seem to take kindly to sudden or decided changes of habit. A dear old friend of the writer who kept his physical powers virtually intact up to the age of ninety-three attributed no small part of his rugged strength to the fact that he always had work which was his to do, and he seemed to be most happy when engaged in it. He did practically all of the plowing on the farm, taking it easy on the riding gang plow, while he was always equal to an emergency in corn plowing or harvest. He was so busy and contented that he had no time for peevishness or complaining, but, rather, was a radiator of sunshine and good cheer on those who came in contact with him. The underlying principle referred to here is worthy of the serious consideration of a great many elderly people.

A PURE GAME OF GRAFT.

The level headed person who desires to be known among his neighbors for his good sense and conservatism will not sign a note for a stranger, will not patronize lightning rod or fruit tree agents and will not invest money in wildcat mining or investment enterprises. The last scheme, above all, is a graft pure and simple, and there is probably no other method whereby the unsuspecting lose larger wads of their hard earned money. Doesn't it stand to reason that if so much money were to be made out of a legitimate mining venture the fellows managing it would buy up all the stock instead of "letting the public" in on the ground floor? But profit for them lies not in mining the ore—far from it—but in catching as many suckers as possible through the sale of the stock. This is much easier than using shovel and pick. The public who buy the stock are the nuggets they seek.

The terrapin scale, resembling in some respects the destructive San Jose scale, is doing considerable damage to orchard and forest trees in states east of the Mississippi as well as some in the south. While the lime sulphur wash is an effective preventive for the San Jose scale, the kerosene emulsion is the only spray that will hold the new pest in check.

Geraniums and cannas are the better for a summer out of doors in the flower garden plot. The asparagus fern does better if kept in the house.

LOST IN THE DARKNESS.

Wallace Vanderpool Suffered Bad Fall Last Evening.

Wallace Vanderpool of the township, was found in the rear of J. W. Swingle's dry goods store about midnight Wednesday, where he had fallen a distance of at least 20 feet over a wall into the outside basement of the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Swingle had been out for a drive in the evening and when they returned went to the store before going home, and while there they heard groans coming from the hole in the rear of the store. Constable Hollon who was at the Tidd house was notified and he with two other gentlemen went to the rear of the store where they found Vanderpool laying on the stones where he had fallen and groaning from the bruises received. He had apparently been partaking of the juice of joys during the evening and wandered off the streets, as he was much under the influence of liquor when found. When aroused Vanderpool thought that his time among the living was short and he bid Officer Hollon and the other men goodbye, remarking that he was a goner this time.. He was taken to the borough lockup where it was found that no bones were broken and that he had only received a few bruises. He was soon asleep unmindful of all cares.

TEMPORARILY OFF MAP.

Caldwell, N. J., Mr. Cleveland's Birthplace, Marooned by Erie Employee.

West Orange, N. J., July 16.—For the last day or two patrons of the Erie railroad at Caldwell have been wondering if the company had decided to go out of the business of selling tickets or whether the town, the birthplace of Grover Cleveland, was to be taken off the map. The station has been locked up and business suspended. The mystery was solved, however, when G. W. Pullis of Jersey City, an employee of the railroad, was sent to open the station.

The trouble, it is said, was that Henry Banta, the station agent, had become tired of the job, had quit, locked the station and left town. Banta's predecessor, John I. Jacobus of Caldwell, resigned a little more than a week ago because, it is said, he could get no assistant. It is thought that Banta departed for the same reason. The books and returns of the office were found to be in a satisfactory condition.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

PENNSYLVANIA NEWS.

Happenings All Over the State In Condensed Form.

CARBONDALE NOW A DRY CITY.

Hanover Townsiph, Luzerne County, Holds the Banner for High Taxation —Hazleton Has Champion Sulky Husband.

Carbondale claims that it is the banner temperance city of the country, so far as the proportion of male members of temperance societies to the total number of male members of the population of the city is concerned, for by the report of the president of that district of the C. T. A. U. last Sunday it was found that in little Lackawanna city there are 1,267 members in the four Catholic temperance societies.

Hanover township, Luzerne county, is claimed by The Mt. Carmel News to have the highest taxable valuation of any township in the state. The total valuation of the township is now $18,000,000 instead of $12,000,000, the valuation before the agitation for an increase in assessment. This is due to the large deposits of coal, upon which about all the increase of $6,000,000 has been made.

The union bartenders and waiters of Wilkes-Barre have decided to bring the movement for a shorter workday to a head, and have accordingly petitioned their employers, asking that ten hours be recognized as a full day's work and that all time worked over that shall be paid for at the rate of 50 cents an hour.

While en route to receive William Wiegand, a Lehigh Valley lamp trimmer, who was struck at Hazleton by an engine, the hospital ambulance in the return trip was struck by an engine. Dr. Loycock and the driver escaped, but the horse was badly injured. Although the ambulence was upset, the patient sustained no further injury.

The first two females that ever emigrated from the Balkan peninsula has arrived in Hazleton and joined the Montenegran colony at Harwood. There was general rejoicing, and the fact that one of the women is single forebodes a wedding at an early date. The Montenagran colony is growing and they all make good citizens. They are intensely interested in the Japanese, though they seem to have the utmost contempt for these Asiatics, as their fathers for centuries fought the Turks.

Hazleton has a sulky husband who in a fit of anger about three weeks ago declared he would never speak to his wife again. There is a small shanty in the rear of the lot and in this he has lived since. His wife has thus far supplied him with his meals regularly, passing them in through the window, but he still refuses to speak to her. Her patience is becoming tried, however, and she threatens to starve him into subjection by refusing to supply him with food unless he comes into the house.

State Highway Commissioner Hunter is sending out a letter to the supervisors of the townships in the state informing them that the amount of funds appropriated for the reimbursement of townships abolishing the work tax under the act of 1905, will not be sufficient to pay the entire sum. Information is also given that there will be no funds available for the reimbursement in 1907 and 1908 owing to the governor's veto of the appropriation bill owing to the condition of state finances.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Towanda People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Towanda.

John Merithew employed in Toy factory living at 105 Prattav., Towanda, says: "About seven years ago I had a severe attack of backache. It was similar to other attacks, but it lasted longer and finally compelled me to quit work. Every turn or sudden move hurt. I could not rest with any comfort and had to lay in just one position or suffer the consequences which were sharp twinges of pain through the small of my back. The remedies I used did not prove satisfactory and when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I sent to a drug store and procured a box. I was in such distress that I used them more frequently than the directions called for. I may have been wrong in so doing, but the end justified the means, for in a short time the pains grew less and less, and finally disappeared entirely. My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today is stronger than ever. I have used them from time to time since, and in every case they have acted promptly and effectively. I cheerfully re-endorse my first statement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

From the Latest NEW YORK FASHIONS

5696 Blouse Waist, 34 to 44 bust.

Pattern For Blouse Waist Designed by May Manton—No. 5696.

The waist that gives the chemisette effect is charming, and this season there are an exceptional number of variations. Here is one of the latest, made of pale green pongee piped with black and trimmed with black buttons, combined with a chemisette of string colored lace over white chiffon. Pongee in all its colors, plain and figured, and innumerable thin summer silks would be charming so made, while many of the so called washable materials are in reality designed to be cleansed and can also be utilized for the design.

The waist is made with a fitted lining, on which the front and back are arranged. There is also a center front portion that is cut in a point at its upper edge, as well as a chemisette which is arranged over the lining, the closing being made invisibly at the left side. The trimming straps finish the waist and the shoulder edges, and there is a choice allowed of elbow or full length sleeves, while a full girdle completes the waist.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 4⅛ yards 21, 3¼ yards 27 or 2 yards 44 inches wide, with one-half yard 18 inches wide for the chemisette, or 1 yard if long sleeves are used; three-quarters of a yard of silk for piping.

Sizes for a 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust.

AUTO-MOWER.

Former Wellsboro Resident Invents and Patents Valuable Machine.

The North Judson (Ind.) News, of July 4, says of A. J. Bunnell of that city, a former resident of Wellsboro, Tioga county:

"A. J. Bunnell, president and owner of the Bunnell Padding company, and inventor of the padding machine that manufactures wrapping mats and pads that are now being universally used ar far East as Boston, as far South as New Orleans, and as far West as St. Paul, where it is pronounced one of the cheapest and best wrapping materials on the market for wrapping furniture, and whose plant here has a capacity of ten car loads a week, has just invented and manufactured a very unique and useful machine, which, in the near future, will appear on the market under the name of 'A. J. Bunnell Champion Auto-Mower.'

"Since Mr. Bunnell has resided in this locality he has found it necessary to overcome the conditions that exist in the Wet seasons in gathering the hay in the low marshes and fully realizing the truth of the saying that 'necessity is the mother of invention,' has invented and successfully manufactured an auto-mower. This auto-mower can be used for not only cutting hay but will haul the wagon and an attached automatic loader. This automatic loader will gather the hay from the marsh after being cut down and dried without putting it in any windrows, picking it up where it falls. This will do away with the horses and the bog shoes necessary to keep them from going through the turf. This machine has been tried and proven perfectly satisfactory. This same power can be utilized in connection with any other farm implement.

The machine is very simple in construction. At first thought it is hard to conceive of a machine that will mow, plow, harrow, disc and perform any other similar duties now performed by the use of the horse."

PASSING OF A LANDMARK.

Old Troy Opera House to Be Torn Down to Make Room for Bank.

The Troy correspondent of the Elmira Star-Gazette writes the following of the Troy opera house, which is to be torn down and on the site will be built the new home of the recently organized Grange National Bank.

The old opera house is a landmark with its history. It was formerly, for a half century or more, the M. E. church building. It was changed in 1873 to its present form—opera house, stores and offices. For twenty years it was the home of Frank Green's saloon, the postoffice and various other enterprises. Afterwards Redington's hardware business succeeded to the saloon and Joralemon's oyster bay restaurants, shoe shops and offices have occupied the building for a number of years past.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" has been played on an average of twice a year in the opera house since it was built. "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" has had its run of popularity and other moral and patriotic entertainments almost without number have delighted Trojan audiences in the now doomed building. It is all off now 'till we can rebuild, and Elmira and Canton will receive the patronage of our entertainment loving population until the rebuilding is accomplished. The present building consists of good old-fashioned pine and hemlock lumber which will be disposed of to carpenters and builders or carried away by relic hunters. It was a structure of note in its day, and is passing, while not regretted, will change the landscape and aspect of Canton street very materially.

Bush Defeated Dawson.

Thomas H. Bush, the Elmira pool player, who participated in two contests at McCracken's parlors in Towanda, during the early Spring, on Wednesday night at Elmira, defeated George Dawson, Western champion of the United States, and challenger for the world's championship. Dawson wagered $25 that he could rhn 200 balls while Bush was pocketing 160. Bush got his 160 while Dawson was getting 189 and thus won the match.

Meeting of Old Friends.

A party of old friends met with Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNeal at Durell on July 4. The guests were Hiram Daugherty of Orwell, Mr. and Mrs. John McIntire, and Miss Harriet Allen of Towanda.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

The importance of knowing just what to do when one has kidney disease or urinary troubles, is best answered by the following letter which was recently published in the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., News-Press:

MILLERTON, Dutchess Co., N. Y.

"Dr. David Kennedy, Dear Sir:—For more than eighteen months I was so badly afflicted with kidney trouble I could scarcely walk a quarter of a mile without almost fainting. I did not gain any until I began to use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. After using the first bottle I noticed a decided improvement which continued, and I know that saved my life, for I was in a miserable condition up to the time I began to take it—my friends thought I never would be better.

My sister also has been very sick with bladder trouble for over a year, so bad that quantities of blood would come from her. She suffered at times most frightful pain, and nothing seemed to help her until she began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. She is now using her third bottle, and is like a different person.

MRS. THOMAS DYE."

THE LAW ON FEEDING STUFFS.

Provisions of the Act Passed by the Legislature in May.

An act passed by the general assembly at its last session and approved by the governor on the 28th day of May, 1907, makes some important changes in the law regulating the sale of feeding stuffs within the state. It provides that wheat and rye bran and middlings or any mixture thereof, except when sold at the mill where made, must be accompanied by the name and address of the manufacturer and a guarantee that the same is pure. Mixed feeds, except chop made by grinding whole grain, and all condimental feeds must be accompanied by the name and address of the manufacturer and a statement of their protein and fat content and also a statement of the several ingredients of which the mixture is composed. The minimum penalty of violating any of the provisions of the Feeding Stuffs Law is raised from $50 to $100.

An act to regulate the sale of paris green, providing for the collection and analysis of samples of the same and the punishment of frauds in the sale and manufacture thereof, was also passed which was approved by the governor on the 29th day of May, 1907.

The secretary of agriculture who is charged with the enforcement of these acts will be glad to send copies of the same to any person who will write for them.

LARGE BARN BURNED.

Lightning Causes Much Damage in Sullivan County, Near Dushore.

The large barn, together with its contents, located near Dushore, and owned by Bert Yonkin, was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire, Sunday evening. There were about 15 tons of hay and five tons of straw in the barn, and immediately after the barn was struck the entire building was in a mass of flames. Mr. Yonkin succeeded in getting out one horse, a cow and a bull. One horse was killed by lightning and six fine calves could not be reached.

Charles M. Yonkin had a horse and buggy tied on the barn floor, which he succeeded in saving. Two lumber wagons and small farming machinery were destroyed by the fire. By considerable effort adjoining buildings were saved.

The loss is estimated at $2,000, on which there is an insurance of $600, in the insurance company of Western Sullivan county.

Fish Law Unconstitutional.

The Department of Fisheries has received word that the Lycoming county court has virtually knocked out the act of the recent Legislature amending the act of 1901, so as to do away with summary proceedings in violation of the fish regulation and require prosecution on indictments in Quarter Sessions Court. The Lycoming county court ordered a nol pros in a fish case on the plea of the district attorney that the new act does not set forth in its title the purpose to change the method of proceedure and therefore is unconstitutional. The effect of this, in the opinion of the department, is to re-enforce the act of 1901, making fish laws defendants subject to summary conviction.

Peculiar Accident.

Pennsylvania railroad men at Altoona are trying to find a solution for one of the most mysterious problems that has come up in their experience. As train No. 47 was running with a train at a 50-miles-an-hour rate, last Tuesday, approaching that city, the engine left the track. The engineer reversed and used his air brakes and the train began to slow down, when the engine returned to the tracks and ran on as if nothing had happened. The train was stopped and an examination made, but not a clue to account for the remarkable accident could be found. Both engine and track were apparently in good order.

New Pastor at Canton.

Rev. Mr. Reddick, the new pastor of the Methodist Episcopal chuch, appointed by Presiding Elder Webb, to fill the unexpired term of the late Rev. D. M. VanTuyl, arrived in Canton last week with his family, consisting of his wife and two children, and on Sunday entered upon his pastoral work. He is a graduate of Syracuse university and Drew Theological seminary, and was serving his fourth year at Montour Falls when the presiding elder transferred him to this place. He has a fine presence, and his sermons on Sunday created a good impression.—Canton Sentinel.

Burglars in a Barber Shop.

Between Sunday and Monady morning the barber shop of Richard Smith, opposite the opera house, in Troy, was entered by the back door. The thief showed remarkable discrimination in choosing 12 of the best razors, two pairs of shears, from four, and two medium sized pairs of clippers. There were four of the latter, and the thief took two, worth about $7 a pair. F. E. Morgan's grocery on Canton street, was also entered, but nothing was taken.

Wyalusing Business Change.

Hugh Mulligan on Saturday purchased the confectionery store of Jessie Homet & Company, at Wyalusing, taking possession of it Monday. It is the intention of the new firm to continue the store as in the past, with especial attention given to the restaurant end of the business, and as Mrs. Mulligan is an expert along cooking lines, there is no doubt but that this end of the business will receive a most liberal patronage.—Wyalusing Rocket.

FAITHFUL UNTO DEATH

Mrs. Carpenter of Waverly, a Martyr to Christian Science

WOULD NOT HAVE MEDICAL AID

Diphtheria Causes Death of Faithful Mother Who Was Stricken While Caring for Her Daughters—Will Be Buried in Potter's Field.

Exhausted from caring for her two daughters who were ill with diphtheria, Mrs. W. E. Carpenter of Waverly, was herself stricken with the dread disease last Thursday, and died about 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Her oldest daughter, Maude, aged 24, lies in a very critical condition with the dread disease. The family are Christian Scientists and have steadfastly refused to have a physician.

When the case was quarantined, Addison Grace, the Christian Science healer insisted against orders on going into the house and has been obliged to stay there since by Health Officer Carpenter.

Death Does Not Shake His Belief.

After the death of his wife, Mr. Carpenter was asked by neighbors to be allowed to get a doctor for the sake of his children, but refused, saying: "I believe differently than you do and am doing everything possible for my family, and I do not wish a doctor, although I thank you for your offer." He seemed very much grief stricken, but his belief in Christian Science remained unshaken.

Former Residents of Smithfield.

Both he and Mrs. Carpenter espoused the Christian Science faith about nine years ago, and later took a course of instruction at the Christian Science school at Buffalo and afterwards acted as healers at their home at Smithfield, Bradford county.

Since going to Waverly Mrs. Carpenter has been the reader for the society of that place. She was a woman of admirable character and the kindest of dispositions. Her home was a model of cleanliness and her children were taught to be lady-like and polite and they always presented a neat and attractive appearance. She was so sincere in her belief that when the coroner viewed the remains she was dressed in her household clothes, holding to the idea that she could conquer death by the firm belief that she was not going to die. The health officer was powerless to interfere as the new law regulating the practice of medicine, which went into effect May 31st, 1907, exempts from punishment persons carrying out the practice of the religious tenets of their faith or any church, and section 273 of the penal code makes it a misdemeanor to interfere with them.

Coroner L. S. Belowski will look up the legal status of the cases thoroughly.

Buried in Potter's Field.

Three daughters ranging in age from six to 15 years are in the plague stricken home. One son, Lloyd Carpenter, resides at Green's Landing. The husband and son state they are unable to bear funeral expenses, and the mother who died a martyr to her belief was buried in the Potter's field in the East Waverly cemetery at 8 o'clock Monday morning.
